Temperance Speaking.
The Local Option Committee of this county have made the following appointments for public speaking by Hon. Geo. W. Ray, of Owensboro, and Wallace Gruelle.
Hartford, Wednesday, April 23, 8:30.
Beaver Dam, Thursday, April 24, 8:30.
No Creek Church, Friday, April 25, 8:30.
Speaking at each point will commence promptly at early candle-lighting.
If you want to hear something that will do your soul good, go and hear Bain Friday night.
Attention, Beaver Dam.
Hartford challenges you to a spelling match. Come in Saturday night—if you have nerve enough.
We have received a copy of the trial of Messrs. Walker and Hubbard, attorneys of this place, in the suit of J. H. Miller et al. vs. G. M. Bibb et al., pending in the Court of Appeals, and known as the "Lottery Ticket Suit." The brief is brim-full of logic and reason.

Quarterly Court.
Quarterly court closed last Monday evening, after a session of seven days. The docket was a large one, and a good many suits were disposed of. Judge Gregory's docket has been full ever since he has been upon the bench.

The Guiding Star.
The Guiding Star, edited by that talented and accomplished young lady, Miss Lelia Addison, will be read before the Hartford Lodge of Good Templars on tomorrow night. All Good Templars are invited to be present, and no doubt, but a rich treat is in store for those who attend.
Don't forget that Hon. George W. Ray, of Owensboro, will speak at the courthouse to-night. You won't regret going to hear him.

Marriage Licenses.
The following were the only marriage licenses issued for the week ending April 24, 1875:
James Jewell and Miss Mahala Howard. Amos M. Miller and Miss Harriet E. Hocker.
A. J. Kinkade and Miss Catherine J. Duke.

Dr. H. Baldwin, Dentist, of Louisville, Ky., has been in our town recently, practicing his profession. He will return on the 10th of May, and remain some days here, and so, if you have any work, has given entire attention to the 10th of May, and come and get your molars dressed up right.

What is it?
If you are anxious to learn how to be a better man and woman, go and listen to Bain next Friday night.

What is it?
We have in our office a curiosity found in the Rensselaer Mines and handed us by Mrs. R. S. Moseley. It seems like a jaw-bone of something, though the substance looks a little like some kind of stone. It is flat on one side and oval on the other, and the flat side is almost a semi-circle in shape, and is set full of teeth, varying in size from the head of a pin to that of a four-penny nail. The substance is about one inch across the flat side, the long way, and about half an inch the other, and is half an inch thick.

Temperance Speaking To-night.
It has been arranged between Messrs. Ray and Gruelle that the former is to occupy the entire time to-night. Mr. Gruelle agreeing to fill the remainder of the appointments in the county. Mr. Ray is an earnest, entertaining and logical speaker, and makes one of the most exhaustive arguments we have ever listened to. He always addresses the reason of his hearers, and retains their undivided attention from first to last. We can promise our readers a rich intellectual feast to-night, and urge upon our citizens to turn out en masse to hear the distinguished gentleman.
Save yourself for Friday night. Bain is coming.

Remember, Bain speaks at the courthouse Friday night.
At the spelling match the other night, Mr. F. P. Morgan spelled Andrew Jackson in this way: "Adru Jackson."—When?

We are authorized to announce B. P. Berryman as candidate for Police Judge. Election Saturday, July 31, 1875.

The most foolish thing we ever knew any one guilty of, was John Smith's attempt to tan a dog's skin with its own bark.

Born.
April 24, 1875, near Charleston, Missouri, to Mrs. Tillie E. Badger (formerly Miss Tillie E. Bonner, of this place), wife of Bolling Badger, a son—L. Armon. We hope our little nephew will grow up to be a useful, sensible man and ultimately reach a prominent position in the world like his uncle, viz: Local and "devil" for a country newspaper.

Speaking Friday Night.
Don't forget that George W. Ray, the Gough of Kentucky, will address the public at the courthouse next Friday night. He is too well known to our people as a speaker to require more than an announcement that he will be here.

Passengers going east on the L. & P. S. W. R. R., would do well to remember that the train stops for dinner at Big Clifty. Ample time is given to enjoy a good meal, and mine host, Sam Goodman, will give you a dinner equal in every respect to any dinner you ever got at a first-class hotel, and will only charge you fifty cents for it. Don't take our word for this, but go and see for yourself.

Real Estate Transfers.
Real estate transfers lodged for record during the week ending April 24th 1875. Thos. B. Millkitt to Stephen A. Midkiff, one-fifth of 158 acres of land on Wolf Pen Run, $200.00.
W. R. Griffith's exrs. to James Metcalf, 147 acres of land on Rough Creek, $400.00.
W. E. Forsythe to A. K. Leach, 2 lots in Cromwell, $700.00.
T. W. Taylor and others to Mrs. Martha Hope, tract of land in district No. 2, Moore's Chapter, by Sheriff Smith, to Henry D. McHenry, $315.15.

Another Old Citizen Gone.
Mr. Brooks Austin was born in the State of Maryland, on the 27th day of January, 1791, and was married to Miss Rachel Benton in 1815, moved to this State in 1817, and settled near Hartford, where he raised a large family of children, some of whom are citizens of our county now. His good wife died a short time back, and on the 21st instant Uncle Brooks' spirit took its departure for another world. He was an industrious, hard-working man, and made a good citizen. He was one of the oldest men in the county.

Almost an Escape From Jail.
Yesterday Jailer E. L. Wise placed the prisoner Stratton in the jailer's room, as he had behaved well of late, and while Mr. Wise was down town, Stratton broke through the door into the hall, and was about getting through the trap door over the stairway, when Mrs. Wise discovered him and gathered a pistol and ordered him back, or she would give him the contents. She stood guard and kept him in until a little negro girl ran down town and gave the alarm. A great many voters last summer supported Lum, because they could not vote for his wife, and that was the nearest they could come to it, and it seems they did not over-estimate her worth, for she has proven herself a game, plucky little woman.

Wallace Gruelle spoke at Beaver Dam last night. Mr. Ray being too unwell to make a speech.

The Rensselaer Scandal.
It appears that our correspondent at Spring Lick has "got into hot water" in consequence of a sub-heading we injected into his letter of last week. He used no names. We supplied the name ourselves, and we did it for the reason that the occurrence was already of wide notoriety. The names of the parties having been published in the Louisville Ledger several weeks ago, coupled with the information that Mr. J. C. Rensselaer, the wronged husband, had visited Leitchfield for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps for a divorce from his erring wife. The details of the affair were also published, and everybody in Ohio and Grayson counties knew who the parties were, and nothing was to be gained by concealment. No reflection of a dishonorable nature can be attached to the unfortunate husband; but, on the contrary, he deserves and receives the sympathy of every right-thinking man and woman. The use of his name was our own act. It was not used in a manner disrespectful to him. And any other Rensselaer has no right to complain. It is simply none of his business. It is not concerned. None of the onus of the bad woman's conduct can attach to any one but herself, and we consider that her husband is a lucky man in getting rid of her. And if any one has a right to complain in the premises, he is the man, and not an outsider. Those who have taken our correspondent to task have simply been guilty of gratuitous and needless impertinence. It may as well be understood first as last that we edit our paper and do it in our own way; that we make whatever changes we deem necessary in our news correspondence, and that in no case do we delegate the responsibility for anything that appears in our paper to other parties. When any one feels aggrieved, let him come right to headquarters with his complaint, and if he has been wronged we will make all necessary reparation.

Local Option.
A strong fight is being made in the lower town districts on the local option question, which will be submitted to the voters next Saturday. Public speaking is announced at different points in the district up to Friday night. The friends of the measure are sanguine of success, and the opponents are working silently, but like beavers. Too much confidence in victory often secures only defeat, and we would urge upon our option friends the necessity of unceasing work up to the minute the polls are closed. They have a powerful and insuperable enemy to contend with, and untiring energy and sleepless vigilance are the only weapons upon which we can put our dependence.

Rockport Police Court.
Evan Williams sued Green B. Robertson for a one-eyed sheep, before the "Big Judge" at Rockport. The sheep died pending the suit, and it was in proof that such sheep were worth at least fifty cents a dozen. The animal's existence was proven up as far back as nine years, at which time he was then an old member of the Sacred Brotherhood of Rams. Verdict for the defendant. Cost, fifteen dollars. This is the way to have fun, when money is plentiful, like it is now. How long on Lord! how long will people act thus? The Grangers ought to get hold of these men, and teach them to settle their little differences without going to law. Williams donated some of his hard earnings to Rock and Robertson contributed a little for the support of the families of Hubbard and Townsend.

The Spelling School.
The spelling mania, which has at last reached us, culminated in a grand spelling match on last Friday evening. The exercises opened, as usual, with all manner of resolutions, and it seemed for a while as if the meeting was a resolving school instead of a spelling school, but the chairman, Prof. Haynes, at length brought order out of chaos by appointing Misses Della Addison and Nettie Miller as captains of the respective sides. Messrs. McHenry, Hill, and others, enlisting under the waving plume of Miss Miller, while Messrs. Rogers, Smith, Miss Houston, and others, rallied to the neutral tinted banner of Miss Addison. Mr. Fogle, knowing that he could write better than he could spell, contented himself with being Secretary, while Mr. Morgan and Dr. Griffin took charge of the Dictionaries.

Mr. Tom Taylor felt easily in the fight under the fire of "samphire." Our friend Henry Williams failed to reach the final letter in "column," and at last fell out altogether, attempting to play the boastful character of "Bragadoglio" in Spencer's Faery Queen. Henry went to spelling school at Louisville and drinks "sixer" instead of cider. Miss Kate Hardwick only added to the loveliness of her bright eyes, by furnishing an "i" to "prepare." That article of dress called a "pennier" not having reached Hartford, Miss Gerty Houston of course failed to identify it with the brand-basket of the Spanish mauler. Not being lawyers, McHenry and Hubbard went out of court on a demurrer to the word "resolution." Miss Mahan met with the same misfortune, but it was discovered in time to save her that the spelling book was wrong, when the lawyers applied for a new trial, and insisted that there were four s's in the word. Hill's behavior was a good spell. Ned Pendleton was green about "gangrene." Miss Gentry looked rather like the color in getting too many perpendicular letters in "vermillion." The School Commissioner's "gavillon" resulted in his putting up more poles than the canvas would stand. Miss Addison at last yielded to "modellion," and Miss Miller, whose side was victorious, gave up on "cartouh." The audience was convulsed with merriment when the Sheriff tried to spell matrimony—"m-a-t, with a mat, t-r-y with a try, with a mat-try." "Try Miss Lane," some one suggested. "Tom" said he would, and when last heard from was dead in earnest, going down stairs saying, "Try—with a try." The entertainment was a success, and will be repeated next Saturday evening, when everybody is invited. Free to all.

FROM BUFORD.
Buford, Ky., April 27, 1875.
Time produces changes, as we all can verify. In my last, I spoke of the brilliant and abundant prospect for a fine fruit crop, but the protracted cold weather infringing upon the manifold benefits of spring, has brought about quite a different state of things in that particular, and anticipated enjoyments for the coming summer in "fruit feasts" have been almost entirely blighted, as the peach and early apples are about all killed, only a motley having escaped the effects—for this season—of the severe frosts; notwithstanding the maxim that fruit is never injured in the "light of the moon," especially if it blooms at that phase of that luminary. But I suppose that those who believe in her influence upon the productions of nature will bring in the plea that there are exceptions to all general rules.

THE TOBACCO PLANTS.
Too, have been considerably injured—more so in those beds that were not sown in the woods—though the farmers think that if the plants are not otherwise affected there will be a sufficiency for a tobacco crop. And many of them are of the opinion that if there should only be a half crop raised, that there would be more benefit reaped from it than from a full crop. Still they all are striving to do as much as possible to produce a "big crop," and many to the neglect of cereals, which is certainly a great mistake, for the benefit effects of such farming is greatly perceptible throughout this and many other tobacco-growing sections. Such as finger-ridged lands, badly improved farms, and where the tobacco crop fails many families are left in straitened circumstances, that being their chief dependence for clothing and food. A reform in that kind of farming seems to me greatly advisable.

BEAVER DAM ITEMS.
BEAVER DAM, KY., April 27.
Business has not been as good for the past few days as we would like, but still we are content.
STAVES AND TAX-BARK.
Messrs. Barnes & Taylor shipped several car-loads of first-class staves last week, and have many yet to follow.
Messrs. Sandels & Barber have a large number of men employed in getting out bark, which will be ready for shipment in a short time.

RETURNED HOME.
Mr. O. M. Barber returned a few days since, he having been rusticated in the Nelson county hills for several weeks. He is looking much better than when he left.
GOOD WORK OF THE GRANGERS.
It is surprising to see the good effect the Grangers have had upon our loafers. They have all turned large tracts of land, and are now turning the soil preparatory to planting a large crop of corn.

THE LOST MERCHANT AGAIN.
We were glad to see such an interesting account of our lost merchant's trip to the west. I wonder why he didn't tell us how the crops were looking about Caneyville. It seems to me that if I had consumed forty-eight hours in making inquiries, I could have given a very glowing description. It may be however, he forgot about such things, and devoted his time to other matters, as he is naturally forgetful.

While out driving with the charming Miss T. of Hartford, Sunday afternoon, he directed his course towards this place, which he reached about sunset, called a boy to attend to his horse, and was about assisting the young lady from the buggy, when she remarked to him that she resided in Hartford! This calling him to his senses, he quickly took his seat and started at lightning speed for the home of his fair friend. He says he doesn't know what was bothering him, whether it was reminiscences of by-gone days, or the thoughts of a blissful future.
A FEW CENTS AGAIN.
Our drover yards have been opened and the ladies and gentlemen seem to be perfectly happy engaged in the innocent amusement.

ANOTHER RAILROAD ACCIDENT.
Only one accident on the railroad last week that I know of. Six freight cars were thrown from the track at Carroll's switch; some damage to cars; no personal injury.

FROM CANEYVILLE.
AN EXCITING ELECTION: W. B. CANEYVILLE, KY., April 27.
A great deal of fear and anxiety is being entertained by the advocates of whiskey in this community, as it is highly probable that Local Option will carry here at the May election. The most prominent citizens of the town and vicinity have awakened (at last) to a sense of duty, and, fully convinced of the evil and degradation caused by the deadly and seductive influence of the vile monster, intemperance, are working with a vim to banish it from our midst. Never before was such excitement known at this place over a May election. There are eight aspirants for Justice of the Peace, and seven for Constable, and all seem to be sanguine of success.

A FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKED.
Seven cars of the East-bound freight train were wrecked half a mile west of Spring Lick on Thursday last. They were loaded with tan-bark, lumber, &c. A great deal of damage was done, but no person hurt.

GOOD TEMPLARS CONVENTION.
The Grayson County Good Templars Convention meets at this place on Saturday, May 8, on which occasion Geo. W. Bain, the great Temperance Orator, will deliver a public lecture, and Miss Jennie Tilford will read a Welcome Address. A good time is anticipated, and we hope that every lodge in the county will be fully represented.

DEATH OF MRS. SALLIE A. GRAY.
The long expected death of Mrs. Sallie Ann Gray occurred at her residence near this place on the morning of the 16th inst. She had suffered for many months with consumption, but now her pains are ended. Weep not, dear friends, but comfort yourselves with the belief that your loss is her eternal gain.

EFFECTS OF THE COLD SNAP.
The recent cold spell killed all the peaches of this community, and it is the opinion of many that the young tobacco plants that were frozen will not appear any more, and several of our farmers are sowing new tobacco beds.

FALSE FRONTED YOUTHS.
The last few days, we are sorry to say, have proven to be a great disadvantage and drawback to certain young men of this place, who wear false shirt fronts and colored shirts, but they must "keep their coats on," or reveal their hypocrisy.

THE LOST MERCHANT OF BEAVER DAM.
We notice in the two last issues of the HERALD that a widower, merchant of Beaver Dam has been the subject of some little gossip. From the limited information that we have had the good luck to secure concerning him, he is very easy to get lost while roaming about. And we do not desire to expose his place of retreat where he gets (so called) lost, but he can invariably be seen at this place every few days, with "one of Caneyville's latest on his arm. He is several years our senior, nevertheless we would advise him for the safety of his wife to stay at home, as several of the boys of this place have sworn vengeance on him if they discover him in this place any more." J. T. N.

Messrs. Ray and Gruelle addressed a packed house at Hamilton Monday night.

Cancer and Sore Eyes Cured.
Those afflicted with Sore Eyes or Cancer would do well to call on

D. L. GREGORY,
Told's Point, Ky., who has been very successful in the treatment of these diseases. He can cure any cancer on the surface, if taken in time. He treats upon the system of "no cure no pay." Give him a trial.

MILLINERY AND MANTUAMAKING!
Mrs. Haynes and Miss Belle Sullinger would respectfully announce to the ladies of Hartford and Ohio county, that they have just opened a establishment on the east-side of the courthouse in Mrs. Wallace's old stand, and solicit a share of their custom. Bonnets and Hats made, trimmed, and repaired. Trimmings of all kinds always on hand. The latest fashions, the best materials, and the lowest prices.
MILLINERY AND DRESSMAKING

NEW STORE AT ROCKPORT, KY.
MENDEL & KAHN,
of Cincinnati, have opened a new store at Rockport, in which they propose to keep a full assortment of Dry Goods, Groceries, Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes, Hardware, Queensware, Notions, Fancy Goods, and in fact everything usually kept in a general store. They have bought this stock at a very low price, for each and will sell the same way.

COUNTRY PRODUCE
of all kinds taken in exchange for goods. We solicit the patronage of the people and will guarantee them the best bargains as they can get anywhere.
